Diabetes Foot Testing

Identify and stratify the triad of risk factors: Neuropathy, Peripheral Vascular Disease (PVD) and Deformity that can interact to ultimately result in ulceration.

The 5.07/10g Monofilament Device identifies loss of protective sensation—a key sign of sensory neuropathy. The Skin Moisture Assessment Device quickly measures skin moisture levels with a non-destructive measuring approach, governed by Bioelectric Impedance Analysis (BIA) technology. The Plantar Pressure Assessment Paper is a dynamic, calibrated footprint imaging device used to identify and measure areas of high focal plantar pressure and identify structural and biomechanical anomalies. High-pressure areas appear as dark spots to create a visual interpretation that “dark is dangerous.” VibraTip® easily replaces the 128Hz tuning fork or biothesiometer as an accepted approach to the testing for diabetic peripheral neuropathy (DPN). This device replaces the work of two diagnostic devices. The vibration stimulus emitted from the VibraTip reaches deeper into the skin surface than the point pressure created by a monofilament.
